

Gate Ventures teams up with Suffolk caterer

Food delivery company Gate Ventures has formed a partnership with East Anglia Taste for Schools (EATS), delivering around 300,000 school meals every year in Suffolk.

The company already delivers over 3.6m school meals in the UK every year and this new contract opens up new opportunities for Gate Ventures beyond the South of England and the Midlands.

It comes after a successful trial of the system in key areas throughout Suffolk over the past year, delivering meals from dining centres in the region to schools without kitchens.

Graham Freer, commercial manager for catering at EATS, commented: "Following time trials of all the school delivery routes and amending where necessary for maximum efficiency, we are pleased to have agreed a partnership with Gate Ventures that will ensure that schools without kitchens in our region will continue to have freshly cooked, delicious meals."

EATS, which is part of Eastern Facilities Management Solutions Ltd, provides freshly cooked school meals for 97% of schools in Suffolk.
